

AMVETS and Universities Partner to Educate Veterans

Last fall AMVETS hosted its first National Symposium for the Needs of Young Veterans. After speaking with thousands of young men and women recently returned from service overseas, AMVETS worked tirelessly to provide additional quality education opportunities to our nation's heroes.

Each year, AMVETS provides thousands of dollars in scholarships to our nation's bravest, including $40,000 worth of scholarships courtesy of the AMVETS National Service Foundation. In an effort to further our commitment to veterans' continuing education, AMVETS recently partnered with three premier educational institutions to provide flexible education opportunities to service members, veterans, and their families.

Through partnerships with University of Phoenix, DeVry University, and Kaplan University, AMVETS has enhanced its scholarship offerings, allowing those who have served to balance their academic goals with increasingly mobile, active lifestyles.

University of Phoenix recently agreed to provide 50 scholarships in 2008 valued at $4,000 each, doubling their commitment from last year.

DeVry University agreed to offer 30 scholarships annually, worth up to $9,000 each toward a degree program from DeVry or Keller Graduate School of Management.

Kaplan University, the latest AMVETS partner, will offer up to 100 tuition vouchers per year, worth up to $7,200 each toward a bachelor's degree and $3,600 each toward an associate's degree. ■
